

City of Redondo Beach

Five-Year Plan to Address Homelessness

Planning Context

The City of Redondo Beach has a population of approximately 67,908, according to the 2017 US Census Bureau estimate. The City is located in County Service Planning Area 8, which is a subdivision of Los Angeles County used for managing homeless and mental health services, and the Fourth County Supervisorial District, represented by Supervisor Janice Hahn.

The January 2018 Greater Los Angeles Homeless Count¹ identified 154 unsheltered homeless individuals living in Redondo Beach, a significant reduction of 107 individuals compared with the 2017 count. While this point-in-time annual snapshot provides valuable benchmark data for Los Angeles County cities, it does not quantify the true number of homeless individuals who pass through our community on a more regular basis. These numbers do not account for the so-called “hidden homeless” – those individuals who are staying with friends or family on a very temporary basis, house-sitting, or staying in motels without a permanent residence, after losing a job, experiencing a sudden rent increase, returning from college, becoming divorced, retiring with inadequate resources, or fleeing domestic violence. We also believe that the homeless population in Redondo Beach increases during the summer.

From May, 2012 through March, 2013 the Redondo Beach Police Department conducted a survey of Redondo Beach’s homeless population with the goal of enhancing public safety and increasing the City’s understanding of the characteristics of the local homeless population. The Police Department also articulated two objectives for the survey: (1) improve the Police Department’s understanding of the transient and homeless population in order to improve outreach and services, (2) strengthen community ties with churches, businesses, institutions and civic groups in order to develop and carry out collaborative strategies for addressing the needs of homeless neighbors. Administered to 180 individuals the survey generated the following findings:

Gender	Years In Redondo Beach	Age
84% Male	39% less than 1	62% 40-50
16% Female	19% undisclosed	23% 20-30
	17% 15+	13% 60-70
	16% 1-4	3% 70-80
	9% 5-14	2% Undisclosed

- 63% use or abuse alcohol.
- 33% display or admit to a personality disorder or diagnosed mental condition.

¹ The Greater Los Angeles Homeless Count is conducted annually across LA in an effort to gather as much information about the region’s current homeless population as possible and assist in making informed decisions and designing creative solutions (<https://www.theycountwillyou.org/>).

- 3% have at least one minor child (who is in the care of a different adult).

Survey results informed the 2014 Redondo Beach City Council's strategic planning and resulted in the City Manager forming a Homeless Task Force comprised of residents who met monthly from September 2014 to April 2015. The Homeless Task Force was charged with preparing recommendations to the City Council on collaborative ways to respond to the challenges of homelessness. The Task Force met with homeless neighbors, residents, businesses, schools, churches, public safety agencies and homeless service providers and in May, 2015 submitted to City Council the following recommendations.

Task Force Recommendation	Progress To Date (April, 2019)

In March 2017 the voters of Los Angeles County approved Measure H, which raised the county sales tax to generate $355 million annually over a 10-year period to provide funding for homeless services across the County. At the same time, the voters of the City of Los Angeles approved a $1.2 billion bond to fund the production of permanent supportive housing for people who have experienced homelessness.

The County of Los Angeles allocated Measure H funding for cities to create their own plans to address homelessness in their respective communities. In November, 2017, the City of Redondo Beach applied for and was awarded a County grant of Measure H funding to develop a five-year plan to address homelessness locally.

The County of Los Angeles allocated Measure H funding for cities to create plans to address homelessness in their communities. To do this, Redondo Beach engaged residents, community organizations, businesses, staff and other stakeholders in a discussion about what the City could do. There was general agreement that Redondo Beach is a leader in responding to homelessness in the City, and that the response should be compassionate and effective.

The Housing Element of the 2013-2021 Redondo Beach General Plan contains program areas addressing services specifically for those at risk of or experiencing homelessness and affordable housing.

Program 4: Preservation of Affordable Housing at Risk of Converting to Market Rate

1. Contact nonprofit developers with capacity to acquire and manage at-risk projects in Redondo Beach to explore preservation options if a Notice of Intent to opt out of the Section 8 contract is filed.
2. Support funding applications by qualified nonprofit developers to pursue funding at the State and federal levels for preserving existing affordable housing.

2017 Midterm Effectiveness Update: No at-risk units were converted to market-rate housing during the Housing Element planning period. Opting out of the Section 8 program requires a one-year notice to the tenants.

Program 6: Services for the Homeless

1. Continue to provide CDBG funding to agencies that operate emergency shelters, transitional housing, and supportive services for the homeless and persons with special needs.
2. The City will work to address the emergency shelter, transitional and supportive housing needs of homeless individuals and families.

2017 Midterm Effectiveness Update: The City continues to utilize CDBG funds to support homeless shelters and provide homeless services. Specifically, the City provides CDBG funds for the following homeless programs:

CDBG Funded Organization	Service Provided
1736 Family Crisis Center	Counseling and case management for families at risk of or experiencing homelessness.
First United Methodist Church	Mail service, meals, hygiene, food pantry, clothing and hygiene supplies, co-located PATH outreach workers.
St. Paul's United Methodist Church	Meals and food pantry.

Additionally, in 2016, the City contracted with People Assisting The Homeless (PATH) and Harbor Interfaith Services to provide coordinated entry services, linkages to services, and housing navigation to those individuals at risk of or experiencing homelessness.

Program 7: Affordable Housing Development

1. Continue to promote the availability of incentives for affordable housing development on the City website.
2. At least every other year, conduct an affordable housing meeting with affordable housing developers and invite proposals from interested developers.
3. Pursue additional State (e.g. State funds for transit-oriented development and infrastructure improvements) and federal funding for affordable development in conjunction with mixed use development on Galleria and Green Line station sites.

2017 Midterm Effectiveness Update: The City continues to monitor affordable housing development funding through the State Cap and Trade program. In January 2019, the City approved the largest redevelopment project in Redondo Beach's history, a redevelopment of the South Bay Galleria which will establish 20% of the development's 300 apartments as affordable to low-income households, defined as those making between 50-80% of the region's median income. Preferred housing will be established for LA Air Force Base and Redondo Beach Unified School District employees and renters with active military status will be allowed to sign leases with reduced security deposits.

Program 9: Residential Sites Inventory

1. Maintain an inventory of adequate sites and provide site information to interested developers.
2. Update inventory annually to ensure adequate sites are available to accommodate the City's remaining RHNA.

2017 Midterm Effectiveness Update: The City continues to maintain a sites inventory that is adequate to accommodate its RHNA.

Program 14: Amendments to the Zoning Ordinance

1. Annually review the Zoning Ordinance to identify potential constraints and amend the Zoning Ordinance as necessary.

2017 Midterm Effectiveness Update: The City is in the process of amending the Zoning Ordinance to address potential constraints related to SROs, emergency shelters, employee housing, and transitional and supportive housing. In February, 2019 the City Council approved two Accessory Dwelling Unit ordinances allowing 3,096 residential lots to be eligible to build ADUs across both inland and coastal zones.

The Redondo Beach Police Department (RBPD) has several officers with specialized training to effectively interact with mentally ill and homeless people, and provides first response to calls about incidents involving homeless people in the City. Over the past five years, RBPD has become a leader among law enforcement agencies in developing channels to engage homeless individuals into services leading to a change in their housing status. Two RBPD officers are assigned to a multi-jurisdictional team of officers, in collaboration with the Cities of Manhattan Beach and Hermosa Beach and the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health, that responds to calls for service and outreach related to mentally ill subjects. Approximately half of the individuals contacted by this team have no known address and are considered homeless.

In addition to the City's contracts with PATH and Harbor Interfaith Services, additional resource time from these agencies is available through the South Bay Cities Council of Governments (SBCCOG). Beginning in July 2019, Redondo Beach will have the services of at least one new housing navigator and one new services coordinator funded by a Measure H grant awarded jointly to Redondo Beach, Manhattan Beach, and Hermosa Beach in December, 2018.

The City provides some funding to the faith-based organizations in Redondo Beach that offer meals, a mailing address, clothing, and other services to people who are homeless. In accordance with best practices, an outreach worker from PATH is on site when meals are served and services are offered, offering enrollment in the Coordinated Entry System and guidance on how to access interim housing and other resources.

Rationale for City of Redondo Beach Homelessness Plan

The passage of Measure H, which created significant new resources to address homelessness in Los Angeles County, provides an opportunity for the City of Redondo Beach to align its current efforts and resources with those of the County and other organizations, including local agencies such as the South Bay COG and neighboring cities. Furthermore, as homelessness is a regional issue, it is critical that the City of Redondo Beach take a regional approach to addressing its impacts. This will require educating the community on the City's vision for curbing homelessness, clearly defining roles and priorities among governmental and community-based partner agencies, and employing a coordinated strategy for outreach and engagement of the homeless population with the ultimate goal of connecting individuals with the proper resources that will move them from the streets into housing, and prevent relapses into homelessness.

Over a three-month period, in January, February, and March, 2019, the City's consulting team conducted 22 meetings² with a total of 290 participants, which gave community stakeholders the opportunity to identify problems and solutions relating to homelessness in Redondo Beach. In addition, 169 individuals responded to a survey posted on the City's website. Those participating included members of the business community, people affiliated with faith communities, Redondo Beach residents, and City and County employees.

The demographics of the City of Redondo Beach homeless population appear to be consistent with those of other cities in the South Bay, but as part of this planning effort, the consultants, in collaboration with the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA), will also conduct a demographic survey of residents of Redondo Beach who are experiencing homelessness. During the community outreach meetings the Redondo Beach homeless population was described as diverse with a variety of needs.

- Chronically homeless individuals often have a disabling condition, and have been homeless for a year or more, or have had at least four episodes of homelessness in the past three years. These individuals are typically well known to the RBPd patrol officers, businesses, and the faith community, and are often the source of calls received by the police department. They typically have co-occurring substance abuse and mental illness, and most have been unable to take advantage of services when they are offered. Several individuals are long-time, well-known local residents; others are more recent arrivals in Redondo Beach.
- Recently or situationally homeless people have lost their housing during the past year for reasons such as losing a job, medical bills, marital breakdown, or a property owner's decision to go out of the rental business. Most people in this category are local residents who want to stay in the area for school, job, or community accessibility, and some live in their vehicles. They may be able to benefit from emergency rental assistance or other programs available through PATH or Harbor Interfaith. These individuals may be known to the school district if their children are enrolled in local schools, and may also be known to faith groups that offer laundry and meals to people who are homeless.
- Transition age youth (ages 16-24) have often lost their housing due to family conflicts exacerbated by overcrowding in their homes. Most youth want to stay in the City and have strong ties to the community. They may benefit from family reunification and access to shared housing. These individuals may be known to friends, extended family, school officials, employers, and recreation department and faith groups who offer youth-oriented activities and services.
- Transients often find their way to Redondo Beach; some of these people may be willing to return to their home outside of Los Angeles County or out of state if resources are available.

² Three meetings were held with business associations and service groups, five meetings were for community members, five were organized by City Council members for residents of their districts, seven were held with City and other governmental employees, one was held with homeless neighbors, and two meetings were held with outreach workers, including the faith community.

- People at imminent risk of homelessness, including families, often use services such as laundry, meals, and food pantries offered by the faith community. Intervention with these people prior to homelessness will help prevent additional people from becoming homeless in the community. People in this category may have a fear of engaging in services for fear of losing their children.

Outreach workers from PATH, Harbor Interfaith, and the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health's Mobile Triage Team work with RBPB patrol officers to engage people who are homeless in Redondo Beach, and provide linkages to local homeless service agencies that have housing, health, and other resources for this population. Police officers communicate with City staff members in Community Services/Recreation, Fire, Library, and Community Development/Code Enforcement departments who regularly deal with homeless individuals as part of their duties. Outreach workers from PATH respond to homeless service calls within 72 hours but often find it difficult to locate individuals, who have often moved on from the reported location.

Some housing is available in Redondo Beach that allows low- and moderate-income people to remain in the community. The Redondo Beach Housing Authority manages 555 Section 8 vouchers for low-income residents, with a waitlist of 5,100 households. Redondo Beach has six senior housing projects providing affordable rentals for up to 980 seniors. There is no interim housing in Redondo Beach. The closest shelters are 15 miles away from Redondo Beach, and take up to two hours to reach using public transportation. Long Beach Rescue Mission, located in central Long Beach, is the closest year-round emergency shelter. Long Beach Rescue Mission provides shelter for up to 140 men and 50 women each night. To access a shelter bed, the first step is to register at the Multi-Service Center in Long Beach. If an individual is eligible and a bed is available they can stay at the shelter that evening. An additional winter shelter, available from December 1 – March 31, is located at the former library on Orange Avenue in North Long Beach. The shelter doesn't allow walk-ins; to access the shelter, individuals must arrive at one of two Long Beach pick-up locations no later than 4 pm. Participants are taken back to the pick-up locations early each morning.

Homelessness is one part of a problem facing Los Angeles County, which needs up to 500,000 new housing units to meet the demand for housing at all income levels. Solutions may be found that encourage those who are homeless in the City of Redondo Beach to stabilize in supportive housing in nearby communities, so that they may maintain community ties. As part of a general approach to increasing the housing supply, the City may be able to create new housing opportunities for low-income residents. At the same time, the City can work with neighboring cities, the South Bay COG, the Beach Cities Health District, and the Redondo Beach Unified School District to prevent City residents from becoming homeless.

- In 2018, through the LA County Homeless Initiative's competitive RFP process, the cities of Redondo Beach, Hermosa Beach, and Manhattan Beach secured multi-jurisdictional funding to support a case worker to provide services to people experiencing homelessness in all three cities. Services to begin July 2019.
- The City actively participates in LA County Homeless Initiative and LAHSA activities including the annual point in time homeless count.
